PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

2009 WIBKE – Programmer

The meaning of WIBKE means, roughly translated, “effect-oriented business culture-evaluation”. At this project I am working on the realization of the system for a Website-System. WIBKE is a project of the Chair of Organization in Saarbruecken and the Bertelsmann Foundation.

2008 UEFA EURO – Vienna, Austria: Team Leader Media-Hotline

At the Euro Championship 2008 in football/soccer I was a Volunteer for the Media-Hotline department. Hereby I was the Team Leader over nearly 30 people and was responsible for the coordination, organization, HR-problems and the planning of some guidelines for this brand-new department.

2006 FIFA Worldcup – Kaiserslautern, Germany: Media-Volunteer

My first soccer/football related volunteership was at the FIFA Worldcup in Kaiserslautern. I worked there as a Photo-Desk Helper and as a Runner, at the desk I helped the photographers to get along in the stadium and in the city and as a Runner I was responsible to get the copies of the line-up, the statistics and other information to the photographs at the field.

2003 eMAG – Berlin, Germany: Founder, Editor-in-Chief and Top Management

2005 The startup eMAG was the first regularly published magazine about eSport. On a monthly base we informed about tournaments, players and other happenings in the scene. In this project, where I was founder, I was responsible for the publishing of the magazine, handling applications, coordinating the next edition, writing, interviewing, layouting, presenting the project for the public and talking with sponsors and partners.

2002 GameSports.de – Berlin, Germany: Project-Leader Magazine

2003 Preliminarily to the eMAG, the ground-stones of the magazine were made under the flag of GameSports where I helped building up this startup and internet-television in eSport with support at the first coverage of it and releasing the first eSport magazine edition.
